PARTICIPANTS:

Read the following statements carefully. Do not sign below until you have thought and prayed about your commitment to this trip.

1. I will prepare myself for this trip mentally, physically, and spiritually.
2. I will not have to be hounded to get my travel paperwork completed and turned in on time. I will participate with the team willingly. I will plan in advance for meetings and I will not schedule other activities on those dates.
(If there are unavoidable schedule conflicts, please contact Tommy as soon as possible.)
3. I have discussed this event with my parents/guardians, bosses, coaches, etc., in regard to scheduling. July 5-12 has been confirmed as my trip date on everyone's schedule.
4. I will have a servant's attitude and will not complain during the trip. I will obey and respect all leaders.
5. I will adhere to all moral, safety, and dress code rules during this trip.
6. I understand if I am having serious integrity, respect or other character issues that I could be dropped from the trip without refund of deposits.

E-mail: lifelinedw@bellsouth.net; www.childrenslifeline.com

The undersigned, being an adult or being the parent or parents of _____, who has volunteered to undertake missionary work with Children's Lifeline, Inc. at their facility in Haiti, acknowledges that it is understood and agreed to the following: Prior to undertaking this mission information has been provided that Haiti has been an area in which there has been social, political, and civil unrest which could carry with it the danger for physical harm, and against which Children's Lifeline, Inc. has no established means of offering protection or safeguards. In addition it is understood that I or the minor who I represent may participate in certain work in the construction of mission facilities or other tasks and while it is understood the intent of Children's Lifeline, Inc. and its officers and directors would exercise care in the management of such projects, there is an understanding that a participant may in carrying out work projects or from the possible dangerous nature of the area suffer injury or harm. In consideration of myself, my spouse, or my child being allowed to participate in this mission and being aware of the possible perils of the mission, and that there are no formal safeguards, or other protective methods supplied or furnished by Children's Lifeline, Inc., I nevertheless agree for myself, or as a spouse, or for the minor whose parent I am, no guarantees can be made concerning the safety of anyone participating in this mission, and further that I will hold Children's Lifeline, Inc., and it's directors or representatives harmless from any claims which might arise from or out of my participation in this project including my traveling to and from the project or any participation in the mission.

Children's Lifeline Guidelines

We at Lifeline are delighted that you will be sharing some time with us in the mission field in Haiti.

We make every attempt to make your trip accident and incident free. Therefore, we have listed some rules that you MUST follow. The rules are simple and are implemented for your safety. Remember, you will be in a foreign country.

WHILE IN HAITI . . .

1. Please do not give out anything in any canteen site or mission property without clearing it with the mission director. We have a policy to not pass out candy when we are in the village. We give treats at organized events so it does not cause problems, jealousy, or greed. We have spent concentrated efforts to stop the begging from the children for money and candy in the village. It has been a long process, but we have made great strides. We have established contacts and ways of discreetly passing out clothing and supplies as we receive them, BUT never in a public fashion. Only the love boxes and our canteens are public forums.
2. NEVER give your address or phone number to ANYONE (if you do you will start receiving collect phone calls at your home).
3. NEVER promise or give a hint of a promise to anyone that you are not prepared to back up immediately. We, on the field will be the ones to pick up the pieces if you fail to follow through on your word.
4. Please take a partner and inform the mission director before you go into the village.
5. Always ask the permission of the one being photographed before taking a photo. Women prefer to have their hair done and a nice dress on first. Kids generally don't care at all, and may even hound you to take their photo. We never pay for photos. Please understand there will be some people who are offended even at the idea you want to take their photo. Don't take it personally.
6. Tops or dresses that show your undergarments and muscle shirts are never appropriate in the villages. Men please keep your shirt on at all times. You represent the Christian foreign world, and while you may personally not agree with standards set by the National church in Haiti, we do ask that you respect it while there.

After reading the above information, please sign the bottom portion of this page and return it with the rest of the forms provided, to Children's Lifeline, 194 Sunset Drive, Clay City, KY 40312. If you should have any questions about what you have just read please contact the office at 606-663-3459.

You must return this signed form to the Lifeline office in order to make the trip.

I have read, understood, and will abide by the guidelines that the Children's Lifeline has set forth.
